

Analysis of Gender Participation in Different Sectors during the Time of COVID-19: Local Level Understanding

Meera Manoharan*

The main objective of the study is to understand how do the government channelize their work during COVID at the local level, the gender participation during this pandemic and the social, political-economic factors that determine the gender participation. The study was based on fieldwork conducted in 2 Wards of the Ongallur panchayat, situated in Palakkad district. The study was based on data generated through telephonic interviews, case studies and review of published articles and websites.